East Area Rapist Attacks No. 23

The east-area rapist, described as "a probable paranoid schizophrenic," attacked his 23rd victim this morning in a Del Dayo home and said he would kill his next two victims tonight.

The rapist made the death threats to his victim and her husband, but gave conflicting reasons for the threats, Sacramento County sheriff's deputies said.

He told the woman he would kill next time if there were any press coverage of this morning's attack, deputies said. But he told her husband he would kill if there were no press coverage of the incident.

The threats were unofficially considered part of the rapist's increasing bravado by some investigators, but sheriff's spokesman Bill Miller said, "I was very concerned about that. Anybody who enters a home where people are sleeping, with a gun, could be very dangerous."

The sheriff's office at first asked local news organizations not to report today's attack. But after analyzing the conflicting statements of the rapist, deputies called a press conference to release a composite sketch of the suspect and a psychological profile that has been drawn by a panel of psychologists and psychiatrists in the community.

The man is "a probable paranoid schizophrenic," who feels sexually inadequate, Chief Deputy Fred Reese said.

The rapist was probably raised in an upper middle class home by a domineering mother and a weak father, Reese said. He's probably an only child, but may have a younger sister.

He is believed to be of greater than average intelligence, at least a high school graduate who may have been interested in police work or military officers training at some point, Reese said. He's probably unemployed now.

The rapist, if threatened, might be violent and possibly self-destructive Reese said. If caught, he might try to take a hostage or stage a shootout with his captors.

But if confronted in a non-threatening situation, the rapist is

Tax Cut Bill Returned To Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax bill that began as the centerpiece of President Carter's economic stimulus program is returning to the White House for final consideration. The President's signature would mean a new permanent tax cut for 46 million couples or individuals.

Those who get the tax cuts should see the changes in paychecks received after June 1.

Congress completed action on the bill Monday. The Senate passed it by voice vote without objection following a 383-2 vote in the House.

Although the bill contains business tax breaks that the Carter administration says are not needed, congressional leaders say they have no doubt that the President will sign it.

The major new tax cut in the bill would benefit only the 69 per cent of taxpayers who do not itemize deductions. By increasing the standard deduction, the legislation would cut taxes by $111 a year for a typical four-member family earning $15,000 a year.

A single person earning $10,000 would get a $110 tax cut. But two million single persons earning more than $13,750 likely would find their taxes increased by about $1 a week.

In addition to raising the standard deduction to $3,300 for couples filing a joint return and $2,200 for single persons, the bill would greatly simplify tax returns for 95 per cent of the individual filers. In most cases, a taxpayer could figure his taxes simply by looking at a tax table and without computing any percentages or using multiplication.

An artist's conception of the east-area rapist, based on numerous bits of information from persons who caught glimpses of him, was released today by the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department. No one has gotten a full-face view of the rapist, officers cautioned, noting that the shape of the jaw is tentative and the face may be leaner looking. Hair style and length also are tentative.

Death Penalty Bill Gains; Senator Plans Personal Appeal To Brown

By LEE PREMSTAD
Bee Capitol Bureau Chief

Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, hopes to send his death penalty legislation to Gov. Brown before the week is out and said today he plans to call on the governor to lobby for it.

Brown has said often and publicly that he will veto any capital punishment measure that comes to him.

But Deukmejian, buoyed now by two-thirds approval in both houses of the legislature, said he will personally appeal to Brown not to block a measure that has received such strong support.

"I think that I probably will try to talk to him after the Senate concurs in Assembly amendments," said Deukmejian.

"I will contact him and offer to sit down and discuss the bill with him. I will offer to give him my reasons why he should not block the legislation.

"I will try to persuade him that he should sign the bill or at least let it become law without his signature."

The Assembly Monday gave Deukmejian the two-thirds vote he had aimed for.

After nearly two hours of emotional, philosophical and sometimes bitter debate Monday, the Assembly adopted the bill by a 54-23 margin.

The 54th vote needed for the two-thirds margin was cast after some delay by Assemblyman Henry J. Mello, D-Watsonville.

Mello sat out the first rollcall and then found to his surprise he was being wooed by both sides, with the vote stalled at 53-23.

probably complacent and gives no indication he's a violent criminal, Reese said.

The psychological profile indicates the rapist feels sexually inadequate and is in "a homosexual panic because of inadequate (physical) endowment," Reese said. "The understanding is that since he is inadequately endowed, he can't establish a normal relationship with women (and raping) is his way to compensate," Reese said.

Although investigators have gathered thick files of information about the rapist and his attacks, they are no closer to catching him than they were 19 months ago, Reese said.

As deputies detailed today's incident, the ski-masked rapist entered a home off American River Drive near Jacob Lane about 1:30 a.m. and awakened a couple in their bedroom. It was not determined how he entered the home.

At gunpoint, he forced the woman, in her mid-20s, to tie up her husband, and then he led the woman to another part of the house, deputies said. The rapist stayed in the home about an hour and a half, but didn't awaken the couple's children or an adult guest.

During the incident, he spoke in a low voice that alternated in pitch and sometimes used a Southern accent, said Bill Miller, a sheriff's spokesman.

Deputies released a composite sketch of the suspect after today's attack by piecing together bits of a description gathered from the 23 women the man has attacked since October 1975.

In most of his earlier attacks, the rapist entered homes where women were home either alone or with small children. But five of his most recent attacks, four in the past two weeks alone, have involved couples.

The rapist attacked about 4 a.m. Saturday after confronting a couple in the bedroom of their home in the vicinity of Greenback Lane and Birdcage Street. His last attack before that was May 5, when he confronted an Orangevale couple in their driveway about 2 a.m.

In the composite description deputies described the rapist as a white man between the ages of 19 and 30. He is well built but slender. He has dirty blonde to medium brown hair about collar length. His eyes have been described as bright blue to hazel.

The rapist has worn a variety of ski masks, ranging from stocking-type to knitted.

Although rumors about the rapist and his attacks are rampant, Miller said today the rapist has never disfigured, cut or beaten any of his victims. One woman in an early case received slight knicks on her fingers from a knife the attacker carried, Miller said. Another woman who tried to resist him was struck and slightly bruised, he said. There have been no serious physical injuries, he said.

While the rapist stays in the homes he has invaded for lengthy periods of time, he has repeatedly attacked the women. He has committed a variety of sexual perversions, Miller said.

Madrid Blast Precedes Mondale

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A bomb wrecked the first floor of the U.S. Cultural Center in Madrid today eight hours before Vice President Walter F. Mondale arrived on a flight from Lisbon, Portugal.

The building was more than a mile off Mondale's planned itinerary and did not affect his visit, made to show U.S. support for recent Spanish moves toward democracy.

The newspaper El Pais reported that a caller who said he spoke for the Communist splinter group GRAPO, told it: "We planted the bomb. We destroyed the Yankee library." The caller made no mention of Mondale.
